WEEKLY

Vol. 23 No. 22

GRADUATION

This time of year is filled with anticipation and excitement as young people graduate and move on to the next phase of their lives. With eagerness, graduates will enter the world with naive expectations and goals. There will be many lessons, however, to learn from the "university of hard knocks" and without proper guidance, these decisions will lead to life long regrets. How can the young secure their hearts to make decisions that will offer a life time of rewards? The answer lies within the pages of God's word.

In Joshua 1:2, Jehovah says to Joshua – "Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel." There was a time of mourning for Moses (Deuteronomy 34) but those days were now passed. There was work to be done and future goals to accomplish. Joshua was instructed to focus on the task at hand without the regrets and disappointments of yesterday.

Someone once said, "We are victims of our past, prisoners of the present and judges of our future." The days of High School are over and the expanse of life is before each graduate. "Now therefore arise" signifies the face being set for the challenges of tomorrow.

God told Joshua to "arise and go over this Jordan" which would require action and direction. Only talking about conquering the land of Canaan would not get the job done. . In life, there will be many Jordan's to cross. There will be Jericho's that give us great victory (Joshua 6) and there will be failures as in the day of Ai (Joshua 7). The difference between Jericho and Ai is whether one trusts in the Lord and obeys him.

My final advice to each graduate is never allow the word of God depart from your life. "Turn not from it to the right hand or to the left ... not depart out of your mouth ... meditate day and night ... observe to do according to all that is written in it: for then you shall make your way prosperous, and then you shall have good success" (Joshua 1:7-8). The decision is yours, graduate. Let God rule in your life and guide your steps through His Word and success will surely follow!

~Matt
